PARENTING CLASSES

The next parenting class is taking place at Toras Emes from 10:30-Noon this Sunday, Dec. 19. Mrs. Marlowe will be joining Rabbi Baumann for this week's presentation. The class will begin promptly at 10:40 in the auditorium and will end by 11:55, in time for elementary boys' dismissal. You are asked not to park on 11th Avenue, to avoid any difficulties at noon.

STAYING WARM

We appreciate those of you who took the time and thought to either e-mail or stop by and discuss with Rabbi Baumann the issues raised about sweaters and sweatshirts. The overwhelming sense conveyed was that of a practical challenge in obtaining the correct sweater wear, and not any philosophical disagreement.

We are pleased to announce that our uniform supplier, Clothes 'N Bows, is now fully stocked with navy and hunter green sweatshirts in all sizes. They are available for purchase at a discounted price of $12.84 (including 7% sales tax). To make things even easier, attached to this newsletter is an order form which must be returned to the office (with payment) by Friday, December 24. We will be happy to place the order and deliver it to your child to bring home.

In discussing dressing warmly, we want to point out that if the children wear layers of clothing, the undergarment's color must be the same as the shirt or blouse (unless it is completely not visible).

KONEI OLAM

This week we learned a great lesson about patience and order and how important it is to have them in class. Some of the classes enjoyed cutting out and coloring small hands to help us remember to raise our hands in class. Next week we're off to Toronto!!

TV CONTROL ACTIVITIES

Wednesday, December 29 is the date for our TV Control activities and BBQ! Those students who completed both the Aseres Yemei Teshuva and Chanukah programs will be invited to participate. Participating students will not be required to wear uniforms on that day. More details will be forthcoming.

MISHNAYOS PROGRAM

We have completed the first month of our extra curricular Limud Mishnayos Program and we are very proud of the enthusiastic participation displayed by the boys in grades 3-5. Please encourage your sons to continue learning. For those who have yet to join us - it is never too late to participate!

CLASS PICTURES

This past Wednesday the halls were filled with smiles as the students were photographed for their individual pictures. This Tuesday is make-up day for those students who were absent and we will be taking class and school pictures as well. Therefore, Tuesday is official uniform day for all Elementary students. This includes white knee socks (or white tights) for the girls.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT WITH... A VERY FASCINATING GUEST

We all enjoyed a very informative visit from Mrs. Chava Willig Levy on Wednesday. Mrs. Levy, an author, spoke to the students about her love of writing. She also discussed how she gets around via wheelchair — a special need which resulted from a childhood illness. Mrs. Levy made the children aware of the fact that a disability is not what defines a person, rather, it is just one component of someone's life. She sensitized the children to the barriers and challenges often faced by people with disabilities.

LOST AND FOUND

Now is a great time for you to claim your belongings from our overflowing lost and found boxes. We have made an effort to return all items that were labeled to their rightful owners, however, many sweaters, jackets, and lunchboxes remain. Please remember to label your children's outerwear and lunch boxes before they are sent in to school.

Dear Parents,

Our students and staff were privileged this week to hear from Mrs. Chava Willig Levy, a prolific writer, who is well known in Orthodox circles for her accomplishments in life. Her main objective in speaking to our children was to convey her feeling that on the list of important things to know about her, being confined to a wheelchair as a result of childhood polio is 'only number four'. (Ask your child what numbers 1, 2 and 3 are.) She stated that she is a happy person, but that living with a disability is hard. For those of us who don't live with a significant disability, we can't begin to fathom what HARD means. Nevertheless, the disability, the hardness can be a stepping stone to greatness. We and especially our children can learn so much from her statement and attitude. Too many people misinterpret "hard" as "bad." Nothing could be further from the truth. Those for whom everything is easy turn out to be the least motivated, least sensitive and least accomplished of all. Our children need to be encouraged to do things that are hard, and not to avoid things that are hard. We learn in Tanach that Adam L'Amal Yulad (Iyov 5:7)—a person is fulfilled by hard work, by meeting challenges and by stretching him or herself beyond current limitations (see Malbim).

It is most fitting that in this and next week's Parshiyos, we are introduced to two individuals with disabilities, who play pivotal roles in our people's history. Chushim ben Dan, a deaf grandson of Yaakov Avinu, who took decisive action to maintain the dignity of Yaakov at his funeral (Sotah 13a), and of course, Moshe Rabbeinu, who was the greatest leader the Jewish People and the world has ever seen, despite a speech disability.

If we were to examine closely everyone's strengths and weaknesses, we would find that without exception, everyone has a disability, an area of relative weakness that is significantly below the average range of people. What makes one weakness a life changing disability and another weakness an inconvenience of far less significance? It seems safe to say that peoples' attitudes and expectations are the greatest factor in that determination. Some disabilities make life very hard – but one's attitude is crucial in determining his or her own happiness and satisfaction, and that is definitely within the person's control, while the disability itself is not.

Our children need this lesson every day – their own happiness and outlook on life is not dependent upon external factors – history is replete with happy people who appeared to have everything stacked against them, while some of the most miserable people were those born with the proverbial 'silver spoon in their mouth'. The attitude we model for them will be the most important determinant in their developing view of themselves and their situation. Let us look to worthy role models and accept the challenges Hashem has determined are the exact set of circumstances needed for us to fulfill our role in this world. In this way we can inspire our children to greatness and happiness, no matter what the 'hard' parts of their life are.

Best wishes for a happy, upbeat Shabbos,

Rabbi Kalman Baumann
